How do I create a study using Userlytics' Quant capabilities?

To create a study using Userlytics' Quant capabilities, first select the "Quantitative Testing" Options at the start of the Userlytics study builder.

Our intuitive activity builder allows you to choose from a list of different quantitative style, customizable activities to ask your participants. You can even use our "Saved Activities" feature if you'd like to reuse a question or task again in a future study.

For even faster study building, take advantage of our "Popular Activities" tool, which provides templates for a variety of popular questions or tasks that you can customize for your study needs.